1 About Strapsense

Strapsense is in the process of developing the Strapsense Buddy, a revolutionary product which aims to resolve issues faced by individuals and the transport and freight industry. Traditionally, tie down straps are manually checked by a person prior to being transported, and visually monitored by the driver in transit. This is prone to human error and the need for the driver to take their eyes off the road. Rather than this traditional method, the Strapsense Buddy is designed to monitor strap tensions and alert the driver when needed, to ensure the appropriate tension is maintained or to provide an early warning for safe and reliable transport of goods.
